Jokes for today

Monday, January 18, 2021

Hopefully bringing smiles to faces during the Covid 19 lockdown

So I was at Tesco's earlier with my service dog.

The lady behind me at the checkout had about £100 worth of toilet paper in her shopping trolley .

With an attitude she asked me, what type of dog he was.

I told her he was my service dog.

Then she got real snarky and said, I knew that. What type of service?

I said he was a BLD.

By now he was licking her face and hands being super friendly.

She said, what is a BLD?

I told her it stood for Butt Licking Dog.

She said Butt Licking Dog?

I said yeah, he has been trained to lick my butt clean because I can't seem to be able to find any toilet paper at Asda's or Tesco's because of hoarders.

The cashier completely lost it.

I swiped my card and paid for my purchases and off I went.